

Dallas is big enough for everyone.

The Dallas Housing Coalition is more than 65 non-and-for-profit organizations with a single mission: to advocate for attainable housing in the city of Dallas.

We are asking the City of Dallas to dedicate $200M of its 2024 Bond Program to housing. Dallas is becoming unaffordable. Access to housing is the greatest reason people move. Where people move, companies move, and that's not good for Dallas. Dallas needs 100,000 new or refurbished affordable homes by 2033 to meet our housing demand.

College grads, young and single-income families, seniors, teachers, nurses, first responders, restaurant workers, and more cannot find housing in Dallas they can afford. Access to housing makes the American Dream possible.

Attainable housing benefits us all in the form of:
